To Mrs. Frances Nason Knight

*"The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength, and skill;
A perfect woman, nobly planned
To warn, to comfort, and command;
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of angelic light."*

THE FOUR CORNERS

SCARBORO HIGH SCHOOL

Volume XXIV

May 1936

Number 1

APPRECIATION

To our advertisers, we, the Editorial Board of THE FOUR CORNERS of 1936, wish to offer our most sincere thanks for the loyalty shown by so many generous citizens in renewing their advertisements, and to all new advertisers.

As a token of our appreciation, we would like to ask all our readers to Patronize Our Advertisers.

WINTER SPORTS

By MAYNARD DOLLOFF

In the past two years there has been a great increase in enthusiasm for winter sports; they have been taken up by the young and the elderly alike for a pastime. Snow trails, ski jumps, toboggan chutes, and skating rinks have been built to stimulate the interest in, and to take care of, the patrons of the sports. Snow trains run every Sunday during the winter season to the different ski trails. Every year more carnivals are held. This interest naturally affects the high schools.

Scarboro has an excellent location for winter sports. The athletic field, just back of the high school, is large enough for a good-sized hockey rink, and for skiing and snowshoe races. This is an advantage over some of the other schools who do not have an athletic field so near. Then, too, there is a hill nearby where a ski jump could be erected.

By introducing winter sports to Scarboro High, many students would be given an opportunity to take part in other activities besides basketball. Some do not care for basketball, which is our main winter sport. A hockey team could be formed.

This would probably lead to a hockey league similar to our present basketball league. A winter sports team could be formed as well. This would give us three main sports for the winter season instead of one.

With basketball our only sport activity during the winter, we have no opportunity to spend much time out of doors. Every school should have an out-of-door sport for the benefit of the health of the pupils. Winter sports would also increase the interest of the pupils in the school, because it would give more the opportunity to represent the school in some way.

SCARBORO SHOULD ADVERTISE

By SHIRLEY KNIGHT, '36

Because of the fact that at least one-half of the population of Scarborough is affected directly or indirectly by the summer tourist business, we think that Scarborough, as a town, should advertise.

Our town offers distinct advantages in entertainment. There are sandy bathing beaches, golf courses, tennis courts, shuffleboard courts, a riding club, and opportunities for fishing and sailing. Tennis, golf, and bridge tournaments are annual events.

The fact that Scarborough can accommodate the summer tourist satisfactorily has been proved in previous years. But we also realize that our town could accommodate more tourists than it does at the present time. Therefore, as advertising would bring the eyes of the motoring public to rest on Scarborough and increase the patronage of local resorts, we feel it the duty of the town to help in making Scarborough a better known stopping-place for summer visitors.

It is worth while to work to increase the summer tourist business for several distinct reasons. First, approximately twenty per cent of the taxes paid to the town of Scarborough comes from the property of those who are engaged in catering to the summer visitor. The value of this property depends upon the business transacted there and not upon the actual value of the land.

Secondly, not only the owners of hotels, tourist homes, cabins, shore dinner houses, and filling stations depend, for the most part, on the summer tourist for their livings, but also a great number of the other townspeople. The aboved-named businesses employ many citizens of this town. In many homes the sole income of the family depends upon the volume of summer tourist business.

Thirdly, the shore dinner houses buy all Pine Point clams and some Pine Point lobsters. Those visitors who rent cottages and do their own housekeeping buy groceries at local stores and fresh vegetables from Scarborough farmers. Some of the hotels also buy fresh vegetables from the farmers.

As an increase in the summer tourist business would be beneficial to the town as a whole, we are convinced that Scarborough should advertise.

OUR TOWN

By HARRIET SNOW, '38

One hundred and sixteen years ago, an old country squire in Woolwich, Maine, called upstairs one cold winter morning,

"Betsy, throw down my boots. I've got to go to Boston and help William King make a state." Thus was Maine founded. And among the first towns to be incorporated was Scarborough. Since then Scarborough has grown and flourished.

The town now boasts four widely-known summer resorts, Higgins Beach, Scarborough Beach, Pine Point, and Prout's Neck. People from all parts of the country come to the summer colonies at these places, where long shelving beaches combine to offer sun bathing and surf bathing.

The scenery around the town is pleasing to the most casual eye, but it is the source of inspiration to many well-known artists who have exhibited Scarborough scenes in nationally prominent galleries.

The town is ideally situated for truck gardening and dairying because of its nearness to markets; five neighboring cities and the summer resorts are within a radius of ten miles.

Good schools also add an attractive feature for the prospective resident of Scarborough, for in addition to well-equipped and efficient elementary schools, Scarborough has one of the finest high school buildings in the State.

To the person, therefore, seeking rural, recreational, or suburban advantages, Scarborough offers an ideal location.

Doctor Benjamin H. Wentworth

Chairman of the School Board,
Superintendent of Schools, and Head of the Health Department of Scarboro for many years.

It was due largely to his efforts in 1926 that our new high school was built. A tireless worker for public benefits at all times, he was a true friend of everyone.

SONG OF THE LARK

The sun is peeping over the edge of the horizon on a broad, flat landscape, with only the faint outline of a house in the distance. On a well-beaten path through the field stands a girl. She has clean, intelligent features, and she is dressed in the garb of a peasant. As she stands, sickle in hand, poised on one bare foot, with her head slightly tipped back, she seems to be holding her body tense so that she may catch a sound in the distance. A smile crosses her face, she hears it. What can it be? Perhaps it is the song of the lark.

ELIZABETH LAMB, '38.

"AS YE GIVE—"

Richard Rowe meditated as he strolled along the main street of a busy New England city. He seemed entirely unconscious of his present surroundings. In his mind he was reviewing the past four years, which he had spent in a state penitentiary. Why, oh why had he stolen that money? Again the dreadful scene of that trial arose before him. The solemn voice of the judge as he read the verdict "Guilty!"

Yes, he had been guilty enough. Then he thought of his lovely wife and the beautiful year-old baby girl he had left behind. Had they forgotten him? Would he be able to find them again?

What was that? The shriek of brakes! A crash! The shifting of gears! Then—silence. Richard Rowe turned and ran in the direction of the crash. He was just in time to see a shining black roadster rounding a corner at a breakneck rate of speed. Running to the edge of the sidewalk, his eyes fell upon the still body of a little child. A hit-and-run driver! An exclamation of disgust rose to his lips. He lifted the limp form in his arms and hailed a passing motorist and begged to be taken to the nearest hospital.

"Is she badly hurt?" asked the driver of the car as he sped along the highway.

"I don't know," replied Richard. "Oh, hurry, hurry!"

Finally the car drew up to the sidewalk and before it had come to a full stop, the man with the child still in his arms rushed up the stairs and into the hospital.

He had only a vague remembrance of those next few hours. White uniformed nurses and doctors, a high white bed, the odor of ether and disinfectants, all mingled in confusion in his mind.

"A broken leg and a possible concussion," he heard a doctor say.

Then a nurse approached and asked him how it had happened. Richard related briefly what he knew.

"We do not know who she is," said the nurse, "but probably her parents will miss her soon. We must notify the police."

All night long Life and Death battled for possession of the child. Richard waited outside the door of the room. Soon a nurse emerged from the door and said, "The crisis is over. She will live."

Weakly the man sat down and rested his head in his hands. For a long time he remained motionless in this position. To whom did this little girl belong? Would someone come and claim her soon?

The door of the child's room opened softly and the doctor came out.

"Her condition is much better than I at first expected," he said. "She has now regained consciousness. Would you like to see her for a moment?"

Silently Richard followed the doctor into the room. The little girl lay upon the big white bed. Slowly her lips parted, and she said weakly, "Where's my Momie?"

"Momie is right here, dear."

Simultaneously three pair of eyes turned toward the door.

"Dick! What are you doing here?"

"Ruth!" cried Richard, running toward her. "It—it—it can't be! Oh, my wife, my baby!"

ELLEN JENSEN, '38.

THE LITTLE GIRL NEXT DOOR

There used to be a little girl
Live right next door to me.
She was a joyous, tiny lass
And pretty as can be.

She used to sit upon the fence
Or in the garden swing,
And when at play I loved to hear
Her tinkling laughter ring.

We used to play at house and such—
As children always do
In bygone days of childhood joy—
On silver wings that flew.

And often when the world was dark
And things weren't going right,
I'd see a girl with golden curls
And eyes that sparkled bright.

So fearing that I'd lose her
And lonely come to be,
I took away the girl next door
And now she lives with me.

BATTLE CRY

The soldiers stood there straight and tall,
In battle line array.
The cannon roared in loud report,
And thus began the fray.

One lost a leg and one an arm,
And one broke clean in two;
Bold heroes to a mighty call
Their service now is through.

They all stood bravely without fear
Amidst the shot and shell,
Until before the cannon's blast
They paid the price and fell.

With joyous cry the general yells—
A lad with tousled head—
For 'twas a cannon made of wood,
The soldiers were of lead.

R. SCAMMAN.

TO A BUTTERFLY

Where goest thou when the sun has set
 And summer passed away?
 Where goest thou when the snow has come
 And cold's the winter day?

Thou child of summer's gentle breath,
 Bright robed and artless gay,
 Fluttering in the sunshine's warmth,
 Hast stole my heart away.

Will you not somehow tell me where,
 When blossoms all are dead,
 Oh, must I ponder in despair?
 Hath summer's love all fled?

Such dainty beauty thou display,
 Need I now say good-bye
 Until the summer comes again,
 O lovely butterfly?

ON THE GROUNDHOG

(Special dispatch to Scarboro High School)

Everyone knows (or should know) that February 2nd of every year is Groundhog Day. I am sure that my readers are all acquainted with the groundhog even if the name is unfamiliar. He is probably more commonly known as the woodchuck.

It has been the custom, for many centuries, for the groundhog, on February 2nd, to come out of his hole, after hibernating all winter. If he sees his shadow, he returns to his hole to sleep for another six weeks, while we must experience six more weeks of snow and cold weather. If, on the other hand, he does not see his shadow, he will stay out of his den and cause the snow to vanish and the sun to shine, and we will have no more cold weather until another year rolls around the corner.

Now the question arises: Does one groundhog control the weather universally for the six weeks following February 2nd, or is there a groundhog for every community? Since the weather, after this important date, is not universally the same, I think it is safe to assume that each community has its own particular groundhog and its own definite responsibility toward him.

Now the groundhog must eat certain things for his existence, just as we must eat, or any other animal must eat. His tastes seem to incline toward corn, beans, peas and other such vitamin-rich vegetables. These, by some peculiar coincidence, seem to be just the things we all raise in our gardens for our own use, so when Mr. Groundhog fills his digestive system with choice articles from our gardens, we consider him a pest and we forget about February 2nd and the successive six weeks. Accordingly we seek to dispose of him. We shoot at him with guns; we set traps for him; we "sic" our dogs on him; we fill up his holes which he so carefully and painstakingly excavated; we smoke him out of his den; we try to poison him, and we employ sundry and divers methods too numerous to mention here.

Naturally Mr. Groundhog is offended by our efforts to get rid of him and he seeks to avenge himself. The easiest way for him to do this is to turn the weather over to Mr. Winter for an additional six weeks while he is slumbering in his burrow.

Thus, if we desire fair weather after February 2nd we must try to appease the groundhog during the summer months. We should plant corn for him to eat. (The corn should be of an early variety and should be some sweet, juicy corn, preferably Golden Bantam.) We should pick the corn every day, husk it and carry it to his holes; we should teach our dogs to protect him rather than to kill him; we should not endanger his life with traps and firearms. I have been told that chuck roast is a portion of the groundhog. This may be a delusion, but we can take no chances so we should refrain from eating it.

I know a certain party that has a groundhog living on his property. In addition to things already mentioned, he gives this groundhog ice cream cones, soda pop, pop corn, etc. The weather on this place is always of the best. If this method will work for one, I can see no reason why it shouldn't work for all of us.

These ideas may not work, but there will be no harm in trying them for a year or two. If they fail, perhaps we can think of something that will succeed. If not, we will just have to keep the moth balls out of our fur coats for an extra six weeks.

DONALD STEVENS, '37.

IT MUST BE SPRING

And each dawning day doth bring
The sun in shining splendor,
And the robin redbreasts sing,
I have such a happy feeling
That I know it must be Spring.

GOOD FRIDAY

We were supposed to write an anecdote for English class. I went home from school and thought, but I couldn't think of a thing. Just to show how a little incident during the wee hours of the morning can change an English mark (for better or worse) and what queer things one thinks of when half asleep and half awake, I'm going to pass this in:

"This morning about three-thirty I happened to be awake. I noticed a car coming slowly down the street. Wondering who would be out at that time in the morning I looked out the window. I heard the car stop and then someone ran up on our front steps and dropped something. First, I thought it was 'the magazine man' who brings my brother Saturday Evening Posts to sell, and then I remembered he came yesterday afternoon. Then I thought it might be someone coming to tell us some of our relations had been killed in an accident. And, then hen thieves. I remembered of reading in the paper where a woman had left a baby on someone's doorstep. Well, I was plenty worried. But finally I went to sleep. When I awoke this morning I went straight to the front door and there were 'the Hot-cross Buns'!"

AMBITION

In Summer when the days are hot,
I'd rather stay in bed than not.

In Autumn when the leaves are red,
I still prefer to stay in bed.

In Winter when the snow is deep,
I'd like to go to bed and sleep.

In Spring when snow hath gone away,
I like to sleep in bed all day.

DEEP-SEA FISHING

By NEAL THIBEAU, '37

Deep-sea fishing is great sport for people who do not have to do it for a living. I like it especially for the things that may happen, and the thrills to be had while at sea. While fishing, you don't know whether you are going to catch a flounder, hook a sucker, or lasso a whale. And while that is going on, perhaps the fog will set in and the wind will start blowing; then there is something to think about besides fish.

It was near the end of the past summer that my brother and I decided to go fishing and to take with us a man who was on a vacation from the city. He had never had the pleasure of deep-sea fishing, and I had an idea that he was not going to enjoy his first experience—they never do.

We started the next morning at day-break. The air was cold, and the sky was clear. The unsteady cold breeze stirred the water into chops which seemed to thrill the stranger. Soon we passed over the bar, which is very dangerous, to get out to sea.

The stranger continued to be thrilled until we stopped to fish. I looked at him after we had been rolling in the trough of the sea for about ten minutes. His face was turning pale and he started to unwillingly feed the fishes under a different process than that of baiting a hook. My brother and I turned the boat toward the shore.

It wasn't such an easy task going back because the waves were now twice as high as the boat. As we came nearer the dangerous bar, the waves not only grew higher, but they began to break. Now and then we would ship some water—our passenger by this time couldn't make up his mind as to whether he would be seasick or thoroughly frightened. We got half way across the bar before I noticed him. He was limp against the port rail, his mouth was wide open, and he was pointing at a wave—five times our height—which seemed about to break over our stern.

We put on full speed and were soon safely racing up the river toward our landing. We all felt much better. By the time we reached dry land our passenger had recovered and wanted to go again the next day. I can say that he had a lot of nerve to want to go again in so short a time, but that is what it takes to develop a real "deep-sea fisher."

WHAT THE SEA HATH DONE

A great ship, its sails billowing white and full against the blue of the sky, rose majestically from out the rim of the sea, the nearly setting sun coloring it in all grandeur of rose and purple.

The spray stung against the fair cheek of the woman watching from the crags on the headland. The strong breeze playing with the golden glory of her unfettered hair made her more lovely as she stood there, and there was a wandering light filling her deep, unfathomable eyes.

Great ships had come. Great ships had gone; sailed away into the blue expanse of towering sky and sweeping Atlantic. With them had come love, joy, life, and happiness. Away with them had passed her heart and the ones she loved.

First there had been her husband. As this one, so had another ship, The Arrow, risen out of the sea. Its captain had been young and handsome, strong, yet gentle. They had loved. But the sea is cruel. Its ways are strange. So The Arrow and its captain sailed away. . . . Somewhere off the coast of Haiti was found all that was left of The Arrow, drifting aimlessly in the heartless fancies of the winds. It was left but a shell. Ransacked by pirates, stripped of cargo and crew. And its captain . . . well, who knows?

And then her son. Eighteen years since The Arrow, and he who was so very like his father also heard the call of the sea. Six months he had been gone. This was his ship. . . . Its well-filled sails rippling nearer were bringing him back to her. . . . The sea would not take another from her, or so she prayed.

The woman turned back and hurried across the ledges, up the path to the little cottage.

A stately ship rounded the headland and rode high into the bay. The chain rattled and the anchor splashed noisily into the blue waters. One by one the sails furled at the commands of the captain. A few moments more and a little boat put off for shore. Faintly she distinguished two figures, and then the boat disappeared beneath the bluff, where another trail led from the bay to her cottage.

Patiently she waited, as one who has grown old in waiting, and yet seemed young, for her hair was still gold, her eyes as blue, her cheek unfaded. It was long ere she heard his step and her heart had grown cold as marble in her breast from fear. But now he was coming. She started forward. . . . There was someone with him as he hurried toward her. They both walked with long, easy strides, rolling as if following the pitching deck of a ship. They were much alike, although one was older.

"I have brought home a friend, Mother. He was marooned on an uncharted island, where I found him and when I ran low on water and anchored there."

The son needed to say no more. The strong, loving arms of the husband were around the woman that was his wife.

ROGER SCAMMAN.

"HOME"

Mansion,
Hut,
Lofly,
Humble,
Here,
There,
No matter where,
It always will
Be just the same.
A place of rest,
A place to go
In time of need;
A place where those
Who need the care
Of loved one may return;
A place of love,
A welcome hearth,
A place for him
Who heavy burdens bear.

It may be old
Or tumbled down,
And yet again
It may be fair
With flowers blooming in profusion.
It means the same
To one and all,
A phrase most loved,
Returning Home.

Tuesday, September 10:

As early as 8.00 o'clock splashes of green dot the highway adjoining the school—the Freshmen are coming—fifty-two strong—the largest entering class in the history of the school—and—who is that—surrounded by a bevy of fluttering-hearted femininity—three guesses—sure, Roger Seamman, post-graduate—just looking them over—the gong—the Boss—please sign on the dotted line—say, who's that six-foot-two nervous Freshman just entering the room—what—our new science teacher—announcement—no hazing of the Freshmen—lucky stiffs—oh, teacher, is American history required—shades of Hades—I haven't credits enough to graduate—oh, dear, why didn't I do my dreaming nights instead of days—'n' the Music Goes Round and Round. . . .

Saturday, November 2:

County 4-H Club Contest at Gorham Normal School. County champions from our ranks include Almon Huff, '36, in Chick Raising; Ted Newcomb, '37, in Dairying; and Harold Prout, '38, in Gardening.

George Stanford and Eugene Allen, '38, attended the State Camp at the University of Maine in August, where the latter won the State championship in potato grading.

Ted Newcomb and Harold Prout also attended the State Convention at the University in December.

Friday, November 8:

A Major Bowes amateur assembly was presented with Steven Libby, '37, as master of ceremonies. Contestants included Grant Jensen, P. G.; Donald Stevens, '37; Steven Libby, '37; Velmah Furbish, '39; Niels Johnson, '37; Helena Jensen, '39; Marion Wood, '37; Winslow Hall, '39; and Blanche Lyons, '37.

Grant Jensen blew himself into the hearts of his audience by his masterful trumpet solos and, by receiving a total of seventy-one votes, won first prize and engagements every Sunday evening for the rest of the year at a nearby Dunstan resort.

SCARBORO HIGH 4-H CLUBS

The Senior class presented their annual drama. Even after a postponement of two weeks, "Miss Adventure" was a success in every way. The cast was coached by Mr. Higgins and he was presented with a set of military brushes and comb during the second performance. The cast of characters was as follows:

Josephine Carter	Jocelyn Shaw
Albert Brown	Almon Huff
Sue	Charlotte Burnham
Peggy	Betty Emerson
Betty	Lorraine Emerson
Sampson	Roger Bennett
Miss Prim	Virginia Bennett
Sarah Haskins	Agnes Plummer
Rebecca Haskins	Gladys Lothrop
Cyrus	George Stanford

Act III. The same.

Stage Managers—Delmar Shaw, Jr., Albert Sewell.

Property Managers—Charlotte Nowell, Eleanor Sanford.

Ticket Manager—Charlotte Nowell.

Head Usher—Maynard Dolloff.

Friday, December 6:

Song contest. A cash prize was offered by Mr. Bessey for the writing of the best school song. Many were contributed and eight of the best were mimeographed and each one was sung several times by the student body. Ellen Jensen, '38, was voted the winner by her song to the tune of "Anchors Aweigh."

Friday, December 13:

"Silhouettes." Interviews were held with Haile Selassie, Mussolini, and Hitler as their profiles were thrown on a screen. Then a guessing contest as twenty Seniors paraded in front of the spotlight. Ellen Jensen and Frances Skillings were winners, as they guessed nineteen of the twenty correctly. Finally, cheers were led by our cheer leader, Steven Libby, as the members of the basketball team "passed in review."

Friday, December 20:

Christmas tree and entertainment. A playlet, "The Christmas Nightmare," was presented. Gordon Rawson, '39, represented Mr. Santa Claus, and Margaret Richardson, '39, was Mrs. Santa Claus. After games in the gymnasium, the gifts on the tree were distributed.

Friday, January 17:

Mr. H. F. Pariseau, Secretary of the Biddeford Chamber of Commerce, gave an interesting lecture on his work in Biddeford.

Thursday and Friday, January 23-24:

MID-YEARS—'Nuf said!

Friday, February 7:

Mr. Hayden Anderson, principal of the Gorham Junior High School, gave a very instructive stereopticon lecture on "The Old Gorham Canal." The slides were made by Mr. Anderson from photographs which he had personally taken.

Friday, February 14:

We haven't decided whether Friday following the thirteenth proved a jinx for us or not. The no-school signal sounded but we were thereby deprived of the Valentine assembly which had been prepared.

Friday, February 28:

4-H Club assembly. Speeches by Miss Hill, County Leader, Harold Prout, and Ted Newcomb. Colored movies were shown by Mr. Armstrong of Portland on "Winter Sports in Maine."

Friday, March 13:

Pep assembly under leadership of Mr. Stoddard. He surely "shooed away the jinxes" on another Friday the thirteenth, and our team went on to trim Limerick High at the Gorham Normal Tourney by a score of 46-41.

Wednesday, April 1:

No fooling! "Tony" Kishon of Bates College and his track coach, Ray Thompson, who was a classmate of our principal in college, were our guests for the day. Mr. Thompson gave a fine assembly talk on "The Use of Leisure Time," and "Tony," during the noon recess, gave us demonstrations with the discus and shot, which left no doubt in our minds of the fact that he is probably the outstanding weight man in college at the present time. During the afternoon session, all who were interested were given a chance to meet our guests personally and to confer with them on matters pertaining to college and track.

Friday, April 3:

The eighteenth annual prize speaking contest was held.

SCARBORO HIGH PUBLIC SPEAKING TROPHIES

PUBLIC SPEAKING TROPHIES

The trophies shown in the above picture have been won by speakers from Scarboro High in Public Speaking contests. They represent team victories in four triangular contests with Old Orchard High and Cape Elizabeth High, four team victories in Triple C Triangular contests with Falmouth High and Cape Elizabeth High, and two Cumberland County individual championships.

Besides these trophies, individual prizes of either medals or cash have been won by our speakers in winning one first, two seconds and one third in the Spear State of Maine Prize Speaking contests and also by their winning one first and two seconds in Triple C County contests.

TRIPLE C SPEAKING CONTEST

The fifth annual triangular contest with Cape Elizabeth High and Falmouth High was held at Cape Elizabeth on Friday, April 10th. For the fifth successive year, Scarboro High won the trophy by its team of Margaret Richardson, '39, Steven Libby, '37, Richard Woodward, '38, and Nancy Rice, '39, scoring a total of 1,037 points. Falmouth High was a close second with 1,033 points.

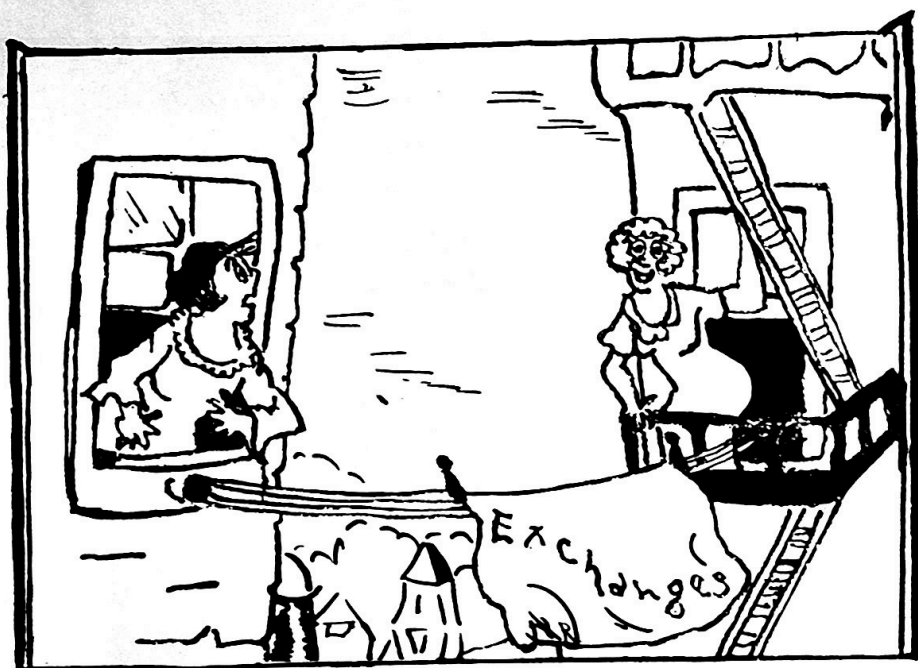

Margaret Richardson was judged the best girl speaker and Steven Libby the best of the boys, thereby winning the right of competing for the Triple C individual trophies at North Yarmouth Academy on April 17th.

ORCHESTRA

Standing: H. Jensen, I. Nelson, A. Plummer, R. Mitchell, G. Jensen, N. Johnson, N. Fielding.
Seated: R. Woodward, B. Paine, I. Douglass, R. Bennett, J. Verrill.

Miss Ethel Edwards was the leader of our orchestra again this year. They have played in many school activities throughout the year. It consists of Agnes Plummer, '36, and Helena Jensen, '39, piano; Barbara Paine, '39, Imogene Douglass, '37, and Richard Woodward, '38, violins; Grant Jensen, P. G., and Malcolm Conner, '37, trumpets; Roger Bennett, '36, and John Verrill, '37, drums; Nelson Fielding, saxophone.

Mrs. FOUR CORNERS says:

The Breeze, Milo High School, Milo, Maine. You have a fine editorial department. Comments on your exchanges would be helpful.

The Caduceus, Norway High School, Norway, Maine. We like your idea of having a French department. More cartoons would make your book more interesting.

The Chronicle, South Paris High School, South Paris, Maine. The students of South Paris High School have done a fine piece of work in their school annual.

The Corona, Bridgton High School, Bridgton, Maine. The sports section of your book is very complete. We suggest that you have an exchange department.

The Crimson Rambler, Standish High School, Standish, Maine. You have a very complete alumni department and your literary section is very good.

The Gatherer, McKinley High School, Deer Isle, Maine. The picture of your Senior class taken when they were Freshmen adds to the interest of the year book. Why not have an exchange department?

The Hebronian, Hebron Academy, Hebron, Maine. The Hebronian gives a vivid idea of life at Hebron Academy.

The Log of the Good Ship Falmouth, Falmouth High School, Falmouth, Maine. A very original idea carried out in a very pleasing way. We like your snapshots very much.

The Nautilus, West Paris High School, West Paris, Maine. Your magazine was read with pleasure. Your cartoons are very original.

The Navillus, Berwick High School, Berwick, Maine. Your editorials are very good and you have a very fine literary department.

The Pilot, Mechanic Falls High School, Mechanic Falls, Maine. Your literary department is extremely fine, especially the poetry.

The Pinnacle, Meredith High School, Meredith, New Hampshire. We enjoyed your book very much. Your exchange department was especially good.

The Red and White, Sanford High School, Sanford, Maine. The Red and White brings us interesting news from Sanford monthly. We like the idea of your "Birthdays of the Month."

The Signet, N. H. Fay High School, Dexter, Maine. You have a good literary department. We suggest that you have more poetry.

The Sokokis Warrior, Limington Academy, Limington, Maine. You have put out a very fine paper for a school of your size. The school calendar of events is very complete and adds to the interest of your publication.

The Whirlpool, Pennell Institute, Gray, Maine. An excellent paper. We look forward to another copy next year.

The Whirlpool, Pennell Institute, Gray, Maine. Your cartoons are clever and your joke department is very good. Someone at Pennell Institute must have a good sense of humor.

Mrs. Elsewhere says:

The Caduceus, Norway High School, Norway, Maine. We find no outstanding omissions to criticize. You have an excellent magazine.

The Chronicle, South Paris High School, South Paris, Maine. We are always pleased to receive such a well-organized paper. The exchange editor certainly has original ideas. Your illustrations are very amusing, and mention should be made about your "Poet's Corner," which shows talent along this line.

The Crimson Rambler, Standish High School, Standish, Maine. An interesting and well-organized book. We envy the girls' basketball team.

The Pinnacle, Meredith High School, Meredith, New Hampshire. Your paper has good literary and joke departments. We think class pages would be a good addition.

The Signet, N. H. Fay High School, Dexter, Maine. A very attractive school book. Excellent literary and exchange departments.

ATHLETICS

BASEBALL

As in the previous year, we did not attempt to play a regular schedule in the league, but we did play a few informal games with Gorham High and Windham High.

More interest is being shown toward baseball and in time we hope to be able to join the league.

WINTER SPORTS

The first annual Triple C winter sports carnival was held at Falmouth High School. As this sport is new to Scarboro High School, we entered only one contestant, namely "Joe" Dolloff. Of course we all know of the feats which "Joe" has done at the two winter carnivals held at Deering Oaks. He took second place at the Triple C carnivals in the 100-yard dash in skating, the only event in which he was entered.

TRIPLE C-YORK COUNTY TRACK MEET

The first annual track and field meet between the York County and Triple C divisions was held at the Portland High School Stadium on June 8, 1935. Each school sent contestants, not to represent the school, but to represent either the York County or Triple C teams.

Scarboro's contestants were Huff, '36; Welch, '35; Dolloff, '36; Jensen, '35; and Rokowski, '35. All but two of these men placed in the meet, Dolloff placing first in the 440-yard run and third in the 100-yard dash. Dolloff and Jensen also ran in the Triple C relay team which took first place, and Huff won third honors in the pole vault.

While York County was much stronger in the weight events, the Triple C boys were far ahead in the track events, and the final score stood: Triple C, 69; York County, 44.

BOYS' OUTDOOR TRACK

The ninth annual track meet of the Triple C was held at the Bowdoin College athletic field, since the Portland High Stadium was being improved for the New England Track Meet. Although the field was new to all, there were three records broken and one equalled, Scarboro's team consisted of Dolloff, '36; Huff, '36; Stanford, '36; Scamman, '35; Jensen, '35; Lyons, '35; Welch, '35; Shaw, '36; and Rokowski, '35.

Summaries:

100-Yard Dash—Won by Hill (Cape Elizabeth); second, Thibodeau (Pennell); third, Dolloff (Scarboro). Time, 10½ seconds. (Equalled the record.)

220-Yard Dash—Won by Thibodeau (Pennell); second, Hill (Cape Elizabeth); third, Johnston (New Gloucester). Time, 24½ seconds. (New record.)

STATE MEET

Scarboro was represented at the State meet by a small but well-trained team, namely: Dolloff, '36; Jensen, '35; Huff, '36; Lyons, '35; Rokowski, '35; Welch, '35; and Ahlquist, ex-'36. Dolloff won fourth place in the one-half mile; Welch took fourth place in the 220-yard low hurdles, and Huff tied for third place in the pole vault. Our relay team which consisted of Dolloff, Jensen, Lyons, and Ahlquist won second place.

BOYS' SWIMMING

Scarboro competed in the eighth annual Triple C swimming meet held at the Y. M. C. A. on October 17, 1935. Although our team did not place, they showed that, with a summer's practice, they will stand an excellent chance when next year's meet is held. The members of our team were: Stanford, '36; Solok, '38; E. Strout, '37; and H. Strout, '39. Two of these, H. Strout and E. Strout, were new members.

RIFLE MEET

The sixth annual Triple C rifle meet was held December 7, 1935, at the Y. M. C. A. Scarboro finished fourth with a total score of 203 points, just three points less than last year. Shaw made 76 of these, Stanford 72, and N. Harmon made 55.

Falmouth won the meet with 228 points, to which Shapleigh contributed 81.

Our team this year had two letter men from last year: Shaw, '36, and Stanford, '36, and three newcomers, N. Harmon, '38; D. Rawson, '37, and S. Libby, '37.

The following list shows the order of finish and the scores:

Falmouth	228
Cape Elizabeth	220
Windham	216
Scarboro	203
Pennell Institute	178
Standish	177
Gorham	172
North Yarmouth Academy	170
Freeport	165
Greely	142

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Scarboro High boys started off a highly successful basketball season with four victories before they were beaten. An interesting event occurred when their first game with the alumni totaled a score of 27-25, whereas last year their game with the alumni ended with a score of 26-25, a difference of only one point over last year.

Due to Mr. Hallett's fine coaching and the strengthening presence of five veterans, namely: "Joe" Dolloff, '36; "Al" Huff, '36; John Harmon, '36; Delmar Shaw, '36, and George Stanford, '36, excellent prospects favored the year's team and proved as much when twelve victories and but six losses were gained.

High scorer of last year remains still on his throne, with 215 points out of the team's total of 676 points. Loyal fans may have noticed a player whose improvement promises much for next year, the class of '37's own "Teddy" Newcomb.

Other subs contributing to the fine spirit of the team were: "Donnie" Rawson, '37;

"Norm" Harmon, '38; Donald Clark, '39; and Earl Leary, '37.

Scarboro entered the Lewiston Small Schools Tournament this year for the first time since the year 1930, but were defeated by Hallowell by a score of 47-31.

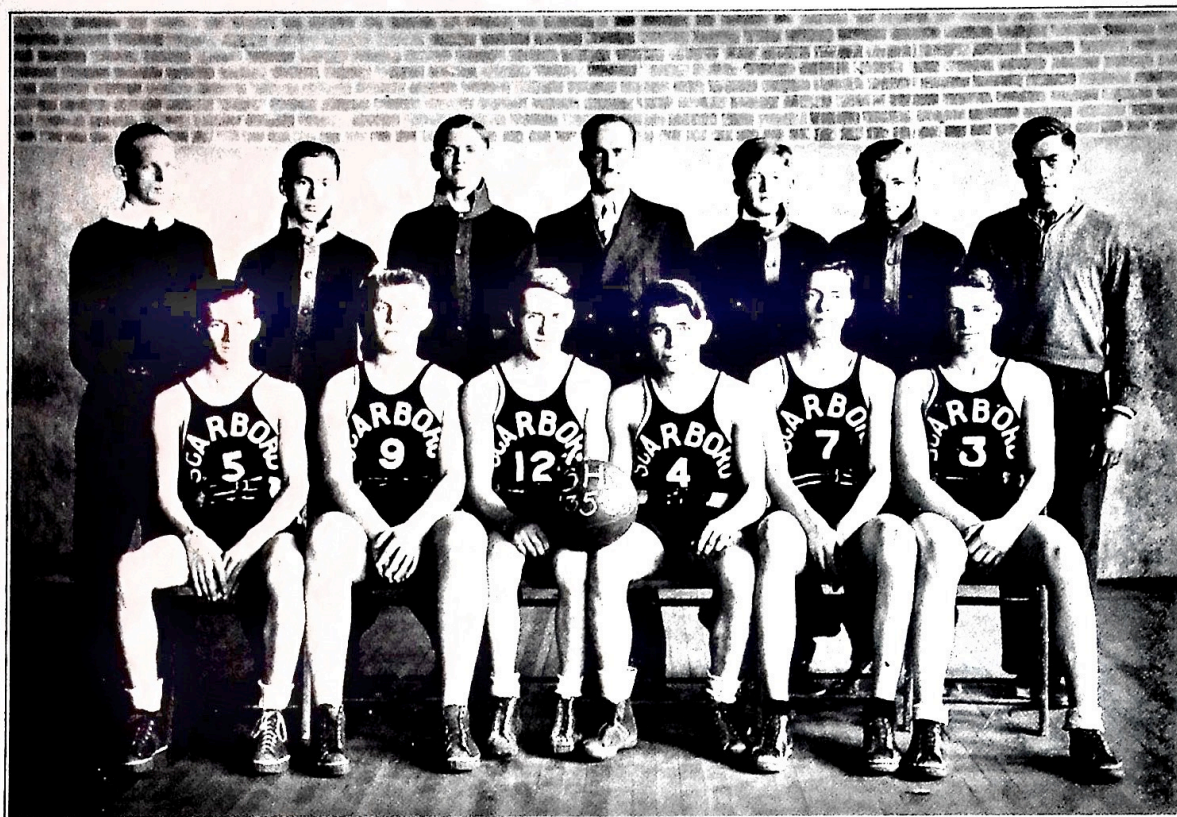

Our team won their first game with Limerick at the Gorham Tournament by a score of 46-41, only to be defeated by Standish, who later won the tournament.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

A squad of about twenty-five girls reported for practice this year, and most of these girls have faithfully attended practice throughout the season.

Our first team has consisted of: Forwards—Geneva Plowman, '38; Lorraine Emerson, '36 (captain); Frances Skillings, '37; Guards—Jocelyn Shaw, '36; Virginia Bennett, '36; Elva Pooler, '38; Virginia Sanford, '37; Centers—Betty Emerson, '36; Charlotte Burnham, '36; Marion Skillings, '36; Harriet Snow, '38.

Others who have attended practice faithfully are: Ellen Jensen, '38; Jeanette Johnson, '38; Letitia Leary, '38; Shirley Knight, '36; Mary Newcomb, '39; Nancy Rice, '39; Helene Howatt, '38; Edith Stanford, '39; Christine Gantnier, '39; Charlotte Mather, '38; June Skillings,

'39; and Barbara Willey, '39. As there will be five girls from the first squad back next year, leaving only the center position to be filled, and at least eleven girls who have practiced faithfully, next year's team looks very promising.

Girls who will receive letters this year are: Lorraine Emerson (captain), Margaret Gantnier (manager), Jocelyn Shaw, Virginia Bennett, Betty Emerson, Charlotte Burnham, Geneva Plowman, Elva Pooler, Frances Skillings, and Marion Skillings.

Even though we have not obtained a high place in the league this year, we have all enjoyed working together and feel that basketball is well worth the time and effort it requires. The girls have appreciated very much the fine coaching they have received from Miss Paine, a member of our faculty.

INDOOR INTERCLASS MEET

A small but powerful three-man team from the Post Graduate ranks nearly succeeded in winning the indoor interclass meet, but the Seniors finally pulled through by a margin of four points. Order of finish: Seniors, 31; P. G.'s, 27; Juniors, 23; Sophomores, 4; Freshmen, 2. Dolloff of the Seniors and Jensen and Rokowski of the P. G.'s were high scorers with ten points each.

SENIOR STATISTICS

Political Preference—New Deal take notice—15 Republicans, 5 Democrats.

Religious Preference—9 Congregationalists, 5 each—Baptists and Methodists.

Most Substantial Citizens—Boys, Roger Bennett; Girls, Agnes Plummer.

Featherweights—Boys, Albert Sewell;
Girls, Margaret Gantnier.

Those Starry Orbs—9 Brown, 7 Hazel,
5 Blue, 1 Gray.

How Firm a Foundation — Shirley Knight holds this honor—no sizes released. Roger Bennett is the undisputed champion for boys.

Almon Huff and Gladys Lothrop make the smallest footprints on the sands of time.

Skyscrapers—Viola Wilbur and John
Harmon tower heavenward the farthest.

Eleanor Sanford and Albert Sewell stick closest to the sidewalk.

Favorite Sports—Variety is the spice of life here, with swimming, basketball, dancing, fishing, drawing, and sleeping claiming the limelight.

Famous Sayings—"When do we eat?"
seems to be the favorite, with "I wouldn't be knowing" as runner-up.

Olympic Champs—This especially versatile class rated as best among its many athletes—Boys, Joe Dolloff and George Stanford; Girls, Jocelyn Shaw and Charlotte Burnham, with Betty Emerson as heeler.

Class Aristotle — Boys, George Stanford; Girls, Virginia Bennett.

Biggest Sleeper—Albert Sewell, Roger Bennett, and Delmar Shaw are credited with cuddling their pillows and the girls selected Jocelyn Shaw and Marion Skillings as their sleeping beauties.

Most Flirtatious—Almon Huff and Albert Sewell appear to have met with feminine approval; Jocelyn Shaw and Charlotte Burnham seem to have caused the most cardiac flutterings among the opposite sex.

Woman Hater—Badly as we hate to say it, Roger has the least use for the female gender; Alice Gratz, according to popular vote, seems the most nearly immune to masculine attraction.

Prettiest Girl—Lorraine Emerson and Jocelyn Shaw are the easiest on the eyes.

Handsome Boy—Delmar's appearance seems to give him a claim to be the class Apollo.

Gloomy Gus—Joe Dolloff and Roger Bennett brighten the fewest corners; Viola Wilbur and Alice Gratz are the saddest of our girls.

First Arrivals on Earth from Our Number—Joe Dolloff and Eleanor Sanford.

Class Babies (noted for their good dispositions)—Virginia Bennett and George Stanford, who will leave old S. H. S. at 16.

Sunny Jims — George Stanford and Lorraine Emerson.

Greatest Dude — Almon Huff spends the most time near the mirror.

Most Popular Boy — George Stanford (some baby!) and Joe Dolloff.

Most Popular Girl—Jocelyn Shaw, Virginia Bennett, and Lorraine Emerson were well supported for this honor.

Most Capable—Virginia Bennett.

Hot Air Artist—Almon Huff.

Most Helpful to the School—George Stanford and Virginia Bennett.

Greatest Builders of Air Castles — Gladys Lothrop, John Harmon, and Albert Sewell.

Baron Munchausen—Albert Sewell.

They Clean Out Their Plates Best—Roger Bennett and Jocelyn Shaw.

They Burn the Midnight Oil—George Stanford, Roger Bennett, and Alice Gratz.

Social tact is making your company feel at home, even though you wish they were.

DR. NUTHOUSE'S DAILY COLUMN

N. B. The Doctor will answer any simple question.

2.1 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: I have often heard the term "grass widow." Kindly explain.

Answer: A grass widow is the widow of a vegetarian.

2.2 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: What is the definition of a mountain range?

Answer: A mountain range is a cooking stove used at high altitudes.

2.3 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: Where does China get its name?

Answer: China is called China because the first china was made there.

- 2.4 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: I have heard that rhubarb belongs to the celery family. Is this so?

Answer: Yes. Rhubarb is bloodshot celery.

- 2.5 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: Why does a girl wear a halter neck bathing suit?

Answer: Because women like skin games.

- 2.6 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: My wife won't believe a thing I say. What shall I do?

Answer: Have her faith lifted.

- 2.7 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: I have heard that Peggy Joyce is quite a philosopher. Can you tell me one of her beliefs?

Answer: Marry in haste and repeat at leisure.

- 2.8 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: How can we prevent diseases caused by biting insects?

Answer: Don't bite them.

- 2.9 Dear Dr. Nuthouse: I wish some tactful way of telling my milkman not to water the milk. I am a minister and don't want to offend him.

Answer: Tell him you don't want it to use at christenings.

ALL THE FAMILY

Mr. B.: "How much is two and one?"

P. S., '39: "Don't know."

Mr. B.: "Now listen carefully. Paul, how many are Mother and Daddy and baby?"

P. S.: "Oh, I know now. Two and one to carry."

NO DOUBT

Political Canvasser: "What party does your husband belong to, Madam?"

Mrs. Hallett: "Why, me, of course!"

ABSOLUTELY

Mr. Higgins (in Biology): "What weeds are the easiest to kill?"

Donald S.: "Widow's weeds. All you need to say is 'wilt thou,' and they wilt."

POSITIVE EVIDENCE!

C. N., '36: "What makes you think Charlotte and Joe are engaged?"

G. L., '36: "Well, she has a ring and he's broke!"

SO DUMB!

Mrs. B.: "I just got Virginia's rank card."

Mrs. L.: "Did she pass this time?"

Mrs. B.: "No, but she's almost at the top of the list of those that flunked."

REAL MANNERS!

Mr. Stoddard: "Jimmie, I wish you wouldn't come to school with such dirty hands. What would you say if I should come to school with hands like that?"

J. S., '39: "Nothing. I'd be too polite."

CLEAR AS MUD

Mr. H. (in Physics): "George, define bolt and nut and explain the difference, if any."

G. S., '36: "A bolt is a thing like a stick of hard metal, such as iron, with a square bunch on one end and a lot of scratching wound around the other end. A nut is similar to the bolt only just the opposite, being a hole in a little chunk of iron sawed off short, with wrinkles around the inside of the hole."

SUIT YOURSELF!

Mr. H.: "Bobby, what shape is the earth?"

B. S., '39: "Round."

Mr. H.: "How do you know it's round?"

B. S., '39: "Call it square, then. I don't want any argument."

NATURALLY

Mr. H. (discussing heredity in Biology): "Stevens, how does it happen you are light-haired where your parents are dark-haired?"

D. S., '37: "Well, our Jersey cow ran away one day and I took after her!"

A COMPLETE EDUCATION

M. S., '36: "Yes, I've graduated, but now I must inform myself in psychology, philosophy, bibli—"

Mrs. S.: "Stop! I have arranged for you a thorough course in roastology, boilology, stitchology, darnology, patchology, and general domestic hustleology. Now get on your working clothesology."

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?

G. S., '36: "Why are you bringing my coat and hat?"

G. L., '39: "Didn't you complain of my chilling manner?"

STINGY

L. E., '36: "I went to the dentist yesterday."

V. B., '36: "Does the tooth still ache?"

L. E.: "I don't know; he kept it."

USE YOUR BIBLE

A. H., '36 (to Delmar, who has just escaped from a crowd of girls): "Don't you know there is safety in Numbers?"

D. S., '36: "Zat so! Well, I found it in Exodus."

MONEY WELL SPENT

A. S., '36 (to Mr. R.): "But I can't live without your daughter."

Mr. R.: "Oh, that's all right. I'll pay the funeral expenses."

SWEET SIMPLICITY

M. R., '39: "Is that a Jersey cow?"

P. C., '39: "I don't know. I can't see its license."

SPEAKING OF CHICKENS

Mr. Higgins: "Take this chicken away. It's as hard as a paving stone."

Waitress: "Well, you see, it's a Plymouth Rock, sir."

WATCH YOUR THUMBS

L. E., '36: "Don't be silly. I can drive nails like lightning."

J. S., '36: "But they say lightning never strikes twice in the same place."

CONCENTRATION

Mr. L.: "Didn't I see you kiss my daughter, sir?"

A. H., '36: "How should I know? Do you think I'd be gawking around when I was doing a thing like that?"

DON'T MAKE HER BLUSH

D. C., '39: "Is Gertrude your best girl?"

G. S., '36: "No, just necks best."

WHAT'D YOU EXPECT?

M. C., '37: "Do you use a crib?"

P. K., '38: "No. Just a regular bed."

THAT DEPENDS

M. D., '36 (to druggist at Thornton Heights): "Gimme a tablet."

Druggist: "What kind?"

M. D.: "A yellow one."

Druggist: "But what's the matter with you?"

M. D.: "I want to write notes to my girl."

HOT AIR ARTIST

C. B., '36: "Are you out for football?"

C. S., '38: "Well, yes. I do the aerial work."

C. B.: "What's that?"

C. S.: "I blow up the footballs."

SAUCY THING!

Mr. S.: "There is an Indian Rajah who has to have a bed twelve feet long!"

R. B., '36: "What a lot of bunk!"

SPEAKING OF FLOODS

Mr. S.: "Well, and how did you like Venice?"

Miss H.: "I stayed only a few days. The place was flooded!"

A QUESTION IN ANATOMY

V. S., '37: "I should think you'd know a lot about golf, living so near the Country Club."

M. S., '36: "Dear me, no! I can't tell one end of a caddie from another."

DON'T WASTE YOUR MONEY

Waiter: "Haven't you forgotten something, sir?"

Mr. Heald: "I thought I gave you the customary tip."

Waiter: "You did, sir, but you forgot to eat."

YOU DON'T SESCO!

Miss P. (in Junior Business): "Now, Harriet, tell me which month has twenty-eight days?"

H. S., '38: "They all have."

REAL ECONOMY

Mr. S.: "What do Philippine cannibals do with their victims' heads?"

J. D., '36: "They make noodle soup out of them."

WELL?

G. S., '36: "You are so wonderful, so marvelous, so beautiful, so—so—"

G. L., '39: "So what?"

OUCH!

Mr. S.: "Give me a sentence with detest and deduce in it."

J. S., '39: "I flunked in detest and Dad gave me deduce."

THAT'S ENOUGH

Mr. S.: "Give an example of a sentence without a verb."

S. L., '37: "Thirty days."

KITTY, KITTY

Mr. S.: "Tell whether this is a sentence, phrase, or clause—'What scratched your face?'"

V. P., '37: "Claws."

SO DISTANT

J. V., '38: "What would you say if I were to throw you a kiss?"

P. C., '39: "I'd say you were the laziest man I'd ever met."

ZAT SO?

Mrs. L.: "The great men of our country don't have to take their hats off to anybody."

B. B., '39: "Yes they do."

Mrs. L.: "To whom?"

B. B.: "To their barbers."

NOT HIS FAULT

Mrs. L.: "Bob, your terms are all wrong again. How can you make so many mistakes?"

R. S., '39: "I didn't. Rod did them."

WE DON'T DOUBT IT!

J. S., '36: "Let's have a Senior party."

G. S., '36: "No, let's have a Senior and Freshman party."

L. E., '36: "That suits me fine."

FOXED HIM

A Commercial Law teacher went to a rejuvenation specialist and asked how much it would cost to rejuvenate him.

"To make you feel like 30 again, it will cost you $1,000," said the surgeon. "But to make you feel like 25 again will cost $2,000, and anything below that age, $5,000."

"I don't care about the cost. Just make me eighteen again," said the teacher.

The operation was a success. But when the surgeon sent in his bill, the rejuvenated one sent it back with this notation:

"You can't collect from a minor."

SMART BOY

Mrs. L. (in Civics): "Where is Washington?"

E. M., '39: "He's dead."

Mrs. L.: "I mean the Capital of the United States."

E. M.: "Oh, they loaned it all to Europe."

Mrs. L.: "Do you promise to support the Constitution?"

E. M.: "How can I? My father's supporting me."

EXPLANATION

Mrs. Libbey (in History 4): "Do you believe that George Washington threw a dollar across the Rappahannock? You know it was wider then than it is now."

G. S., '36: "Yes, but a dollar went farther then than it does now."

TIME OUT

Almon: "I should think it would wear your brain out—you recite so much in class."

Delmar: "Oh, no. I rest my brain when I talk."

REMOTE CONTROL

Extract from Velma Furbish's composition in English:

"Henry Longfellow was born in Portland, Maine, while his parents were traveling in Europe. He had many fast friends, among whom the fastest were Phoebe and Alice Carey."

MUTUAL

I. N., '39: "What about your boy friend?"

M. R., '39: "I haven't any."

I. N.: "Oh, I'm sorry."

M. R.: "So am I."

POOR THINGS!

Mrs. L. (in History 4): "Gladys, why wouldn't the immediate abolition of slavery have been practical?"

G. L., '36: "The slaves wouldn't have had anywhere to go."

Mrs. L.: "Can you give me another reason?"

G. L.: "They wouldn't have had any way to get there."

SOME RELATION ANYWAY

S. L., '37 (in assembly): "Who is Davy Jones?"

R. W., '38: "One of the Jones boys."

ALL FOR NAUGHT

Mr. B. (after working an algebra problem on the board): "So we find that X equals zero."

S. M., '39: "Gee! All that work for nothing."

Mrs. L.: "Tardy again. Why are you always so late?"

G. R., '39: "'Tain't my fault. Mr. Bessey always rings the bell before I get here."

POETRY

I wish I were a little egg
Away up in a tree;
I wish I were a little egg,
As bad as bad could be!

I wish a little boy would come
And climb up in that tree,
And then I'd bust my little self
And cover him with me!
